

Chart on the Go

Latest Insights | Macro

Sustained inflation is unlikely in our view

But there are structural and economic factors to monitor over the next 12 to 24 months.

We think that there are three important phases to consider in the inflation story.

 $oldsymbol{f 1}$

2

3

The impact of base effects, driven by abnormally low levels of inflation one year ago

Inflationary pressure from the revival of economic activity and fiscal support programs intended to fuel economic growth Economy at maximum employment and inflation meets or exceeds the 2% target

Source: Columbia Threadneedle Investments, March 2021.

Anwiti Bahuguna, Ph.D.

Senior Portfolio Manager, Head of Multi-Asset Strategy

As we emerge from COVID-19 lockdowns, the U.S. appears poised for a period of high growth. And along with rising GDP prospects, inflation hawks have begun sounding alarms. While we agree that the potential for rising inflation is something to take seriously, the inflation story is not so simple — partly because the Federal Reserve has been clear that its reaction to inflationary pressures will be different this time.

Near term, inflation will most likely be transient rather than persistent. But this doesn't mean the pressures will be any less real for markets and investors as the economy recovers. Longer term, the Fed's new mandate, which implies it will be more tolerant of inflation, could help smooth the economic ride and settle the market's nerves. Only time — and the data — will tell if it does. Until then, keep an eye on inflation, but don't let it dominate your view.

DOWNLOAD THIS PAPER FOR MORE DETAILS >>

Investment products offered through Columbia Management Investment Distributors, Inc., member FINRA. Advisory services provided by Columbia Management Investment Advisers, LLC. Columbia Threadneedle Investments (Columbia Threadneedle) is the global brand name of the Columbia and Threadneedle group of companies. © 2021 Columbia Management Investment Advisers, LLC. All rights reserved. The views expressed are as of the date given, may change as market or other conditions change and may differ from views expressed by other Columbia Management Investment Advisers, LLC (CMIA) associates or affiliates. This information is not intended to provide investment advice and does not take into consideration individual investor circumstances. Since economic and market conditions change frequently, there can be no assurance that the trends described here will continue or that any forecasts are accurate. Investing involves risk including the risk of loss of principal.